The Circus—to the onlooker—spangles, laughter, acrobatics, clowns, fun galore; in its preparation—days, months, even years of hard work, toil, and heart-ache!

Our three years at Weaver can be likened to the "Big Show": spangles—the glitter of our formal affairs; laughter—over the innumerable amusing incidents during a school day; acrobatics—in our sports events; clowns—the many jesters who flavor the lighter side of school life; and fun galore—with our many friends in the school. But also—as in the Circus—the days, months, and years of concentrated effort to reach our particular pinnacle of perfection — success. In this, the most important of our undertakings, there are many heartaches, the memory of which seems to disappear once the goal is reached. This goal, success, whether it be for circus or school, can be attained only by a proper blending of the two elements of frivolity and work.

It is the sincere hope of the Boards that The Portal will, perchance, in later years when nostalgic memories of both school and circus are intermingled, recall to you your part under the "big-top" of Weaver.

WEAVER
DEDICATES
THE 1950
PORTAL

DEDIC

—an outstanding new member of our faculty who quickly commanded the respect of the entire student body as well as that of his associates. In a brief two years, he has risen to the position of vice-principal. His vigorous energy and his pride in Weaver are shown by his undertaking the task of revitalizing the Weaver Boys' Club and, in close conjunction with Miss Goodwin, by aiding to provide a comprehensive and understanding supervision of student affairs in our school. We, the class of 1950, sincerely extend our genuine hope for continued success at Weaver to Mr. Ezra Melrose.

ATION

MR. E. ALLAN MAINES

—one of the most well liked and loyal teachers in Weaver. An instructor in our school since its opening in 1924, he has constantly taken interest in many phases of school life. His quiet and unassuming attitude hide from many the fact of his numerous activities for the school such as being treasurer of the William Holden Memorial Scholarship Fund. In addition to his thorough instruction in chemistry and physics, supplemented by guidance of the Physics Club, he has willingly participated in many other school affairs. Well may he be proud of his numerous accomplishments at Weaver, for which the class of 1950 cordially congratulates and thanks Mr. E. Allan Maines.

MR. WILLIAM F. AITKEN

In years to come, many students of the class of 1950 will remember, with respect and admiration, Mr. William Aitken, our principal, or, to put it in other words, the "Ringmaster" of school life.

The coordinator of all school activities, educational and recreational, Mr. Aitken has exercised a firm yet kindly authority. Whether he was seen addressing an assembly with his famous last words, "You now stand dismissed to your first period class," or whether he was met in a more personal contact about one of the many details of a school day, his refreshing personality was always deeply felt. By his great pride in Weaver and through his tireless efforts in guiding his students along the right paths to happiness, Mr. Aitken has won a place in every student's heart.

We sincerely thank Mr. Aitken for the privilege of being under his leadership.

WILLIAM F. AITKEN

Principal

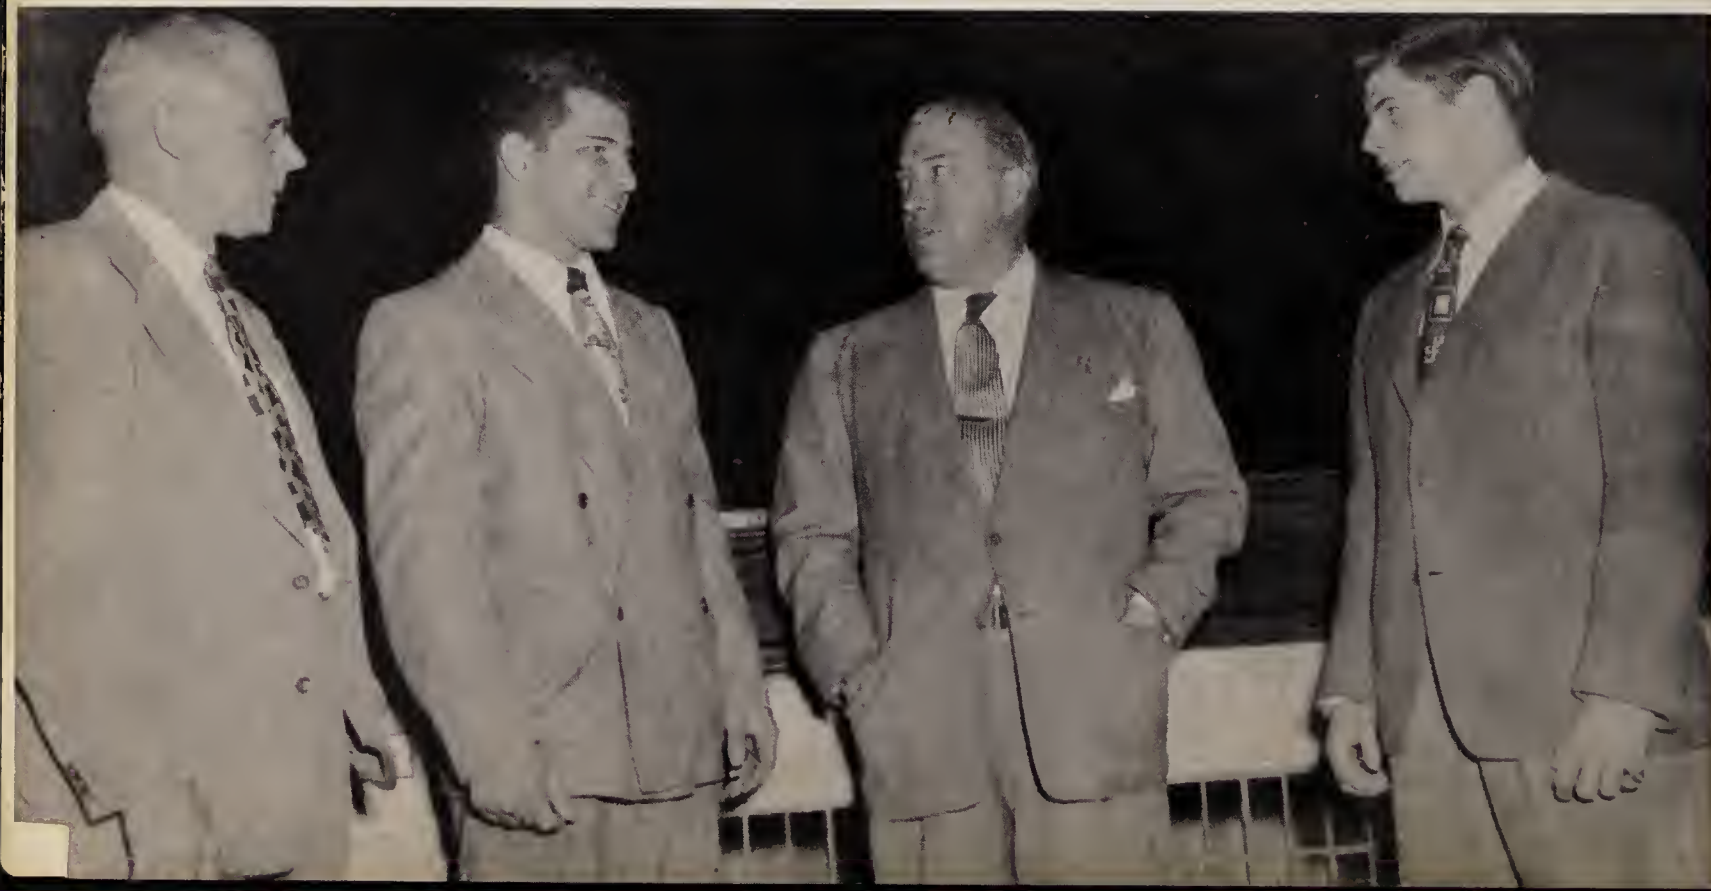

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1950:

As you leave here I could just say "good-bye," but Weaver will always be with you in some small measure. Memories will come back to you from time to time and you will relive the pleasant years spent here. 1950 has been a good class, and as alumni we ask the same loyalty you gave as undergraduates. As you graduate your name will be added to a long list of fine, loyal alumni.

To each of you, best wishes for success in your new ventures, and as you leave, to each of you, God-speed.

WILLIAM F. AITKEN.

Left to right: Mr. Aitken, Ferraina, "Bill" Lee, Moores.

Five years ago Weaver welcomed Miss Goodwin back to this school as Dean of Girls. Ever since then, she has looked after our interests wisely and skillfully, proving herself not only a dean but a friend. She has encouraged us, praised us, censured us when we deserved it, and always she has inspired us to do our best. Under her competent leadership and guidance the Girls' League has continued one of the outstanding clubs in the school.

With gratitude and affection, we bid her farewell.

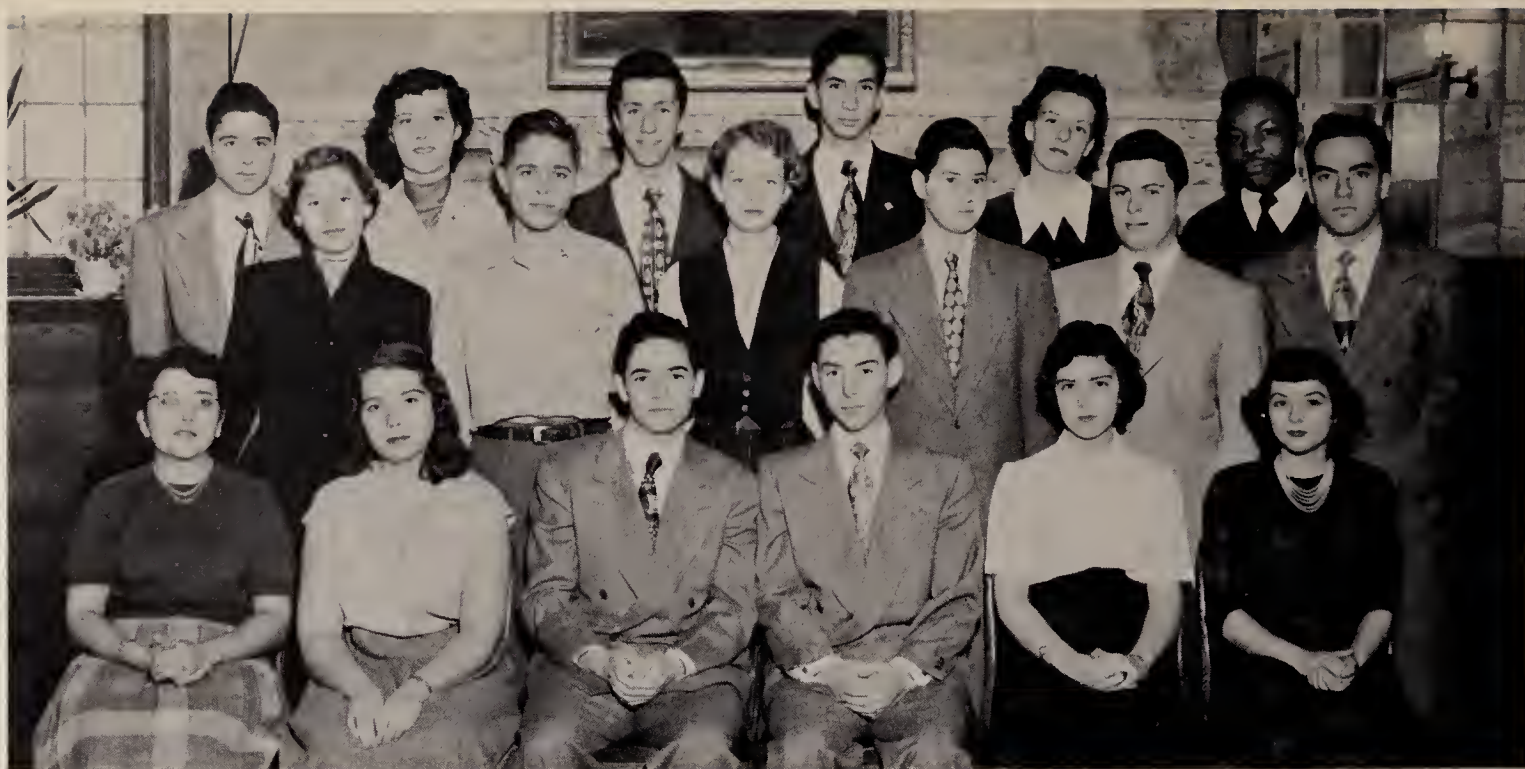

MISS KATHERINE R. GOODWIN
Dean of Girls

"Each member shall endeavor to maintain a mutual understanding between herself and members of the faculty. To do her utmost to promote a feeling of friendliness in word and deed. To give her services freely and graciously to the interest of the school."

W E A V E R H I G H S C H O O L

As we pass out from your portals,
We remember all the days,
Of the years we spent within you,
Learning all your moods and ways.
We remember you in autumn
When our hopes were new and clean;
Buried by the snow of winter;
Dressed in spring's first verdant green.

We remember friends and teachers;
Dark heads mingling with the fair;
Voices ringing through the hallways;
Crowded footsteps on the stair.
Although the years may change you,
May your spirit never die,
But remain forever glowing,
As our days at Weaver High.

FOOTBALL

Weaver's football team achieved a good record this fall by winning five and losing three. Starting off with a bang by taking the first four games, the team was steady but not spectacular. Numerous injuries, especially in the backfield, prevented it from being at full strength most of the time. Coach Horvath used the available men to advantage, with Slobin, Paternostro, Chappell, Pelletier, and Borden carrying the honors in the backfield. John McGill's line, which was, as usual, well-trained, was sparked by the outstanding work of Whitehead and Ferraina. Although most of the starting lineup were seniors, a few outstanding veterans will serve as a nucleus for next year's team.

Games with Windham and New Britain High, both of which usually field strong teams, have been scheduled for the 1950 season.

Some think that the team had a good season—others do not; it all depends on whether or not you believe the team was over-rated originally! Two bright spots on the schedule were wins over New Britain and Windham at the beginning of the season. Both these teams ended with fine records. The early wins caused many to rate Weaver as one of the best in the state, especially after observing the height which the team boasted. As the season progressed, the team blew hot and cold, playing excellently at times, and very sloppily at others. John Kelliher and Mark Yellin were high scorers, with "Turk" Cuylet and Millard Opresso helping a great deal. Watson, Stone, and Frank Kelliher rounded out the regular team.

Off the boards!

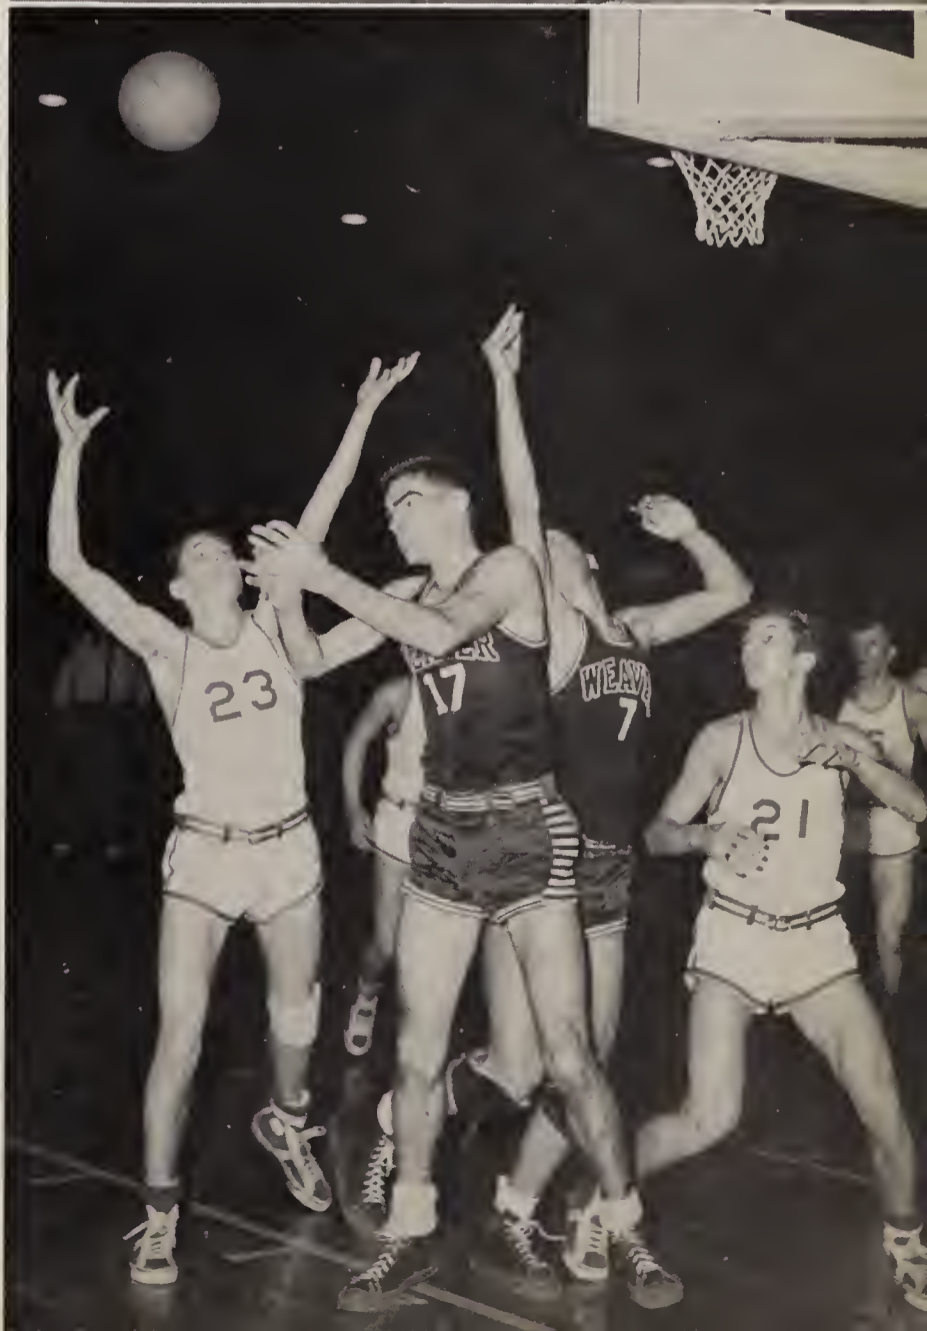

Here it comes!

Weaver was defeated (60-50) in the first round of the state tournament by a classy Ansonia team, even though showing some of the fight which was lacking a great part of the season.

CROSS-COUNTRY

Lean times have come to Weaver's cross-country team, which duplicated last year's record by winning one and losing five matches. From Mr. Wilson's large squad, the only really consistent runners were Captain Weinberg, Beckman, and King. Well, better luck next year!

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

This year's program was conducted by Mr. Wilson, who continued where Mr. MacMullen left off last year. Participating in basketball were a large number of boys who could not spend the time or who were not talented enough to make the varsity teams, or who preferred the informal games of the intramural leagues. Each team played only once or twice during the week, with Jerry Salad, Zonghetti, W. Moriarty, and Jerry Hurwitz acting as referees. Basketball was started during the football season, and touch football was omitted this year. It was great fun while it lasted!

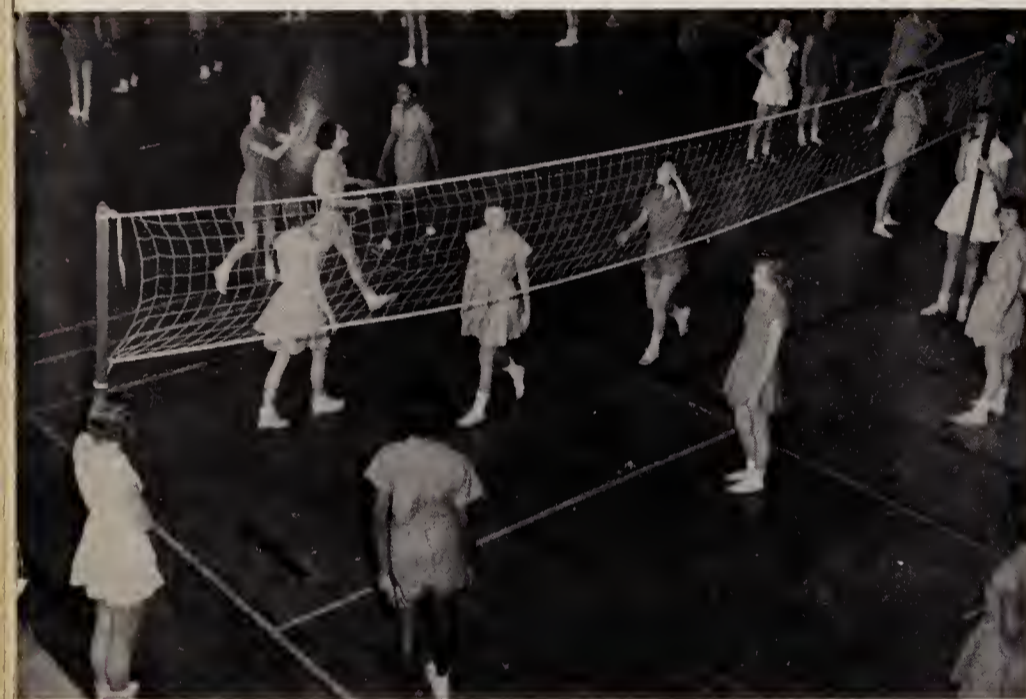

Mr. Mac

GIRLS'

Archery started the ball rolling, or rather, the arrows flying, this year in girls' sports. Many archery aspirants signed up, but Jack Frost had other ideas. At the first sign of warmer weather, though, Adrienne Scharaga again met her "merry maids" in our Sherwood Forest. After scoring all bull's eyes, the archers heard the call of bowling and came indoors for the winter months. The "champs" met with June Newton every Tuesday at the Bowladrome, even setting up their own pins (when they knocked any down!)

Becoming jealous of the boys' varsity team success, the girls, headed by Joan Reilly, turned out for basketball in overwhelming droves. Four teams fought "ruthlessly" against each other for many weeks, the victors taking part in the basketball clinic held at Weaver, January 26th, (a great success, by the way).

Not yet worn out, our girls went after volleyball and badminton with a vengeance, Mary Cramer batting the volleyball and Cynthia Murray taking charge of the birds (the ones you hit with rackets), while the fellows waited patiently (?) outside until the teams were finished (and after those sessions, they really were!)

Cooling off with a milder sport, the indefatigable sportsters took up ping-pong after vacation, with Sandra Murray setting up the tables this time. As the sport took place during activity period, the turnout was a capacity crowd.

The last indoor shindig was a back-breaker—square dancing, the newest addition to the athletic program. The girls worked out many square dances, as well as folk dances (and we really mean worked out!) Pat French took the leadership, and she could do it if anyone could!

Toward the end of May, Jackie French met the girls who by that time were staggering out to the baseball diamond. Here, nevertheless, they played many a lively game, full of yells, friendly rivalry, and hitting everything but the ball.

Sport Night was the climax of our good times (?) in school sports. Throughout that tense evening competition was keen and excitement endless. In 1949 the Blue Team came out on top with Isabelle Cecere and Marilyn Hainsey leading the team to a thrilling victory. Rita Howell and Audrey Thompson marshalled the forces of the opposing Greens in an equally thrilling display. This year Joan Reilly was Marilyn's right hand, while Jackie French aided Audrey. The girls of both teams regained lost vigor, and the contest was the usual exciting fight. Thus with groans and liniment the sport year ended.

DOUNA FORMAN

CLASS HISTORY—1950

TIME: Year 2050 A.H.B. (after hydrogen bomb)

SETTING: Newsroom of station WFEL in Pyromania, capital of the earth.

Teletype clicking—excited announcer rushes to microphone:

"Fellow Pyromaniacs, an amazing archeological discovery has just been uncovered in the ruins of the north end of the ancient settlement of Hotfoot, Conn. (we believe that is the correct pronunciation). According to the "head" of the expedition, Feliot Smiles, the ruins must date back at least one hundred and fifty years. (Interrupted program resumes once again, and music is heard).

"Flash—more news of the expedition. Twenty feet below the wreckage, Feliot Smiles and his men have found several lettered bottles resembling medicine containers. From all appearances, the ruins must be the remains of a hospital. Stamped on a broken piece of glass are the numerals 328.

"Digging deeper into the wreckage the archeologists have uncovered a second layer. Judging from the remains this floor must have lodged the extra large hospital wards. In among the ruins there were many 'beautiful but strange carvings' on the 'furniture'. Here are some: Shultz, '50; Soph.; E.B. & J.R.; a large reward will be given to the one who can decipher this code.

"Also on this level, a strange-looking steel, locked cabinet was found on which appeared the letters LOOKOUT. This must have been the sentry's office. (Music again).

"Another bulletin. Dr. Smiles has just reported that this mass of debris has a third level, which may prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that this wasn't a hospital. The following have just been uncovered: blue, white, and yellow slips with the words, CIPHER, DEMERITS, and PASS. What can these strange letters mean?

"And now the most startling news yet. But first, a word from our sponsor."

"Fellow Pyromaniacs, use Eebarral Tooth Powder, the atomic, radio active tooth powder. If this dentifrice doesn't work, then there's always Eebarral Denty Dentures. So remember, for all your mouth troubles, see your corner pharmacist and patent-bureau for Eebarral."

"Back to the report. Here is Mr. Smiles himself to tell about the next amazing discovery."

Mr. Smiles: In the process of delving through these ancient ruins our party has come upon a pile of mouldy books with the word PORTAL on them. Being the head of this expedition and the only man versed in this classic language, I removed from this pile one exceptionally mouldy book THE PORTAL 1950. I will read you an excerpt from this book:

"Shorty"

CLASS HISTORY OF 1950

The first things that struck us when we were sophomores were the swinging doors. Recuperating from this big blow in a hurry, we noticed the arrival of four new teachers; also the building was warm. Could it be? No, only the new oil tank!

Just because we were big sophomores we were all allowed membership in the few unrestricted clubs left in Weaver: the 8:30 club whose most faithful members were "Jinx" Abramson and "Pixie" Rodin; the Demerit Club, soundly supported by "Shorty" Schuffman and Howie Yalen; and the Seventh Period Club, led by Toby Marranzini.

Tragedy also struck us in our happy day when Miss Elizabeth H. Craig, a member of the English Department, passed away.

We girls were entertained royally by senior members of the Girls' League at the Senior-Sophomore party. In two years we were to get our chance to be the wheels!

Wheels!

*The Mid-Winter
Hop—1950*

Sports Night Exhibition

We had an unequalled record in football that year, unvictorious. That word also leads us to remember when we presented Jasper with our elevator tickets.

Contrary to its title, the Weaver Nightmare supplied dreamy and restful entertainment. Thanks again to Brock for his greatest "Where Are You Now?" (Sitting in the front row, of course!)

Still in the entertainment world, we remember our first Sophomore Hop. In fact, it was WEAVER's first one also. Every Joe dragged his Sally for a really dreamy night.

Then, with apologies to the Met, Weaver "artistes" put on the memorable opera, "The Pie-Eyed Piper!"

Come April and the Boys' Leader Corps became jealous of Girls' Sport Night and put on their own exhibition.

A serious memory of the recent war was brought home to us when Gold Star parents attended the dedication of the plaque honoring the sixty-two war dead of Weaver.

Now being full-fledged Weaverites, we gathered to spend our glorious summer days in Keney Park.

Mr. Frank H. Burke

JUNIOR YEAR

This year started off with sadness in everyone's heart. All of Weaver deeply felt the loss of Mr. Burke, our beloved principal, and honored him at a special Memorial Assembly.

Mr. Aitken instituted the three-minute bell system and study halls for tardiness. Between classes you could cook your eggs just as you wanted them, and have plenty of time to eat them in 240!

Kilroy dropped dead, and Schultz became the undisputed leader though for a while interrupted by Rufus.

Despite rumors heard from H.P.H.S. to the contrary, the Beavers won the Turkey Day Classic. Maybe our exciting rally inspired the boys!

Weaver was the scene of many bustling activities this year; C.S.P.A. Convention, Parents' Night, Cancer Show—"Hey, Waiter," and a visit by that King of Swing, Benny Goodman. Our own Dom Baio played with the master.

Mind your business!

City Series Thrills at Trinity Field House

W-W-W

Rita DiMella and Joan Mandell tied for high honors in bookkeeping. These gals sure know their figures.

We boys finally got a say about something when under Mr. Melrose we reorganized our Boys' Club.

Threatening to replace our ever-popular Bingo was Brock's Weaver Color Song, a product of another successful Weaver Night.

At the Windham basketball game the Philip R. Smith memorial scoreboard was dedicated. It surely has seen many exciting moments.

Weaverites really learned their alphabet by attending the Letter Club's first assembly: W W W W. (See, Mom, I'm spelling!)

The highlight of the year was our glorious Rainbow Rhapsody (Junior Prom to peasants!) Queen Rita and King Dom reigned royally the whole night through.

Now for the greatest event of all under the Big Top, Our Senior Year.

Left to right: Lombardo, Dunton, J. Cooney, Beckham, Greenberg.

Weaver's leading politicians, John Cooney, Bob Lombardo, and Emmy Dunton now have a chance to display their ability at the Junior City Council, our first step towards a democracy in the schools.

GUM?

GUM!

Turkey didn't taste...

Newly renovated Batterson Field saw two pep rallies this fall. For the first time an outside rally was held during the school day.

Undaunted by the results of the football season, (Turkey didn't taste too good this year) Weaver's basketball team made the New Haven tournament for the first time since 1945. The Boys' Leader Corps demonstrated their virile qualities between halves and made many a female heart sigh.

Both the Letter Club's Monogram Dance, and the Mid-Winter Hop were great successes, showing we can really do it if we want to.

The newly formed Astronomy Club saw a successful season with Ray Gaylor as its leader.

Weaver really advanced the feeling of brotherhood by having a combined Christmas-Chanukah Assembly, ably led by The Choraliers and Mr. Brockway. (He pops up everywhere like Mr. Carrier in the Scoop!)

GUM.

Brotherhood Program

Hold it, boys!

Flash: Sandy Murray was elected President of the Honor Society; Nellie Uccello represented Weaver in the D.A.R. Contest, and Bobbie Hoffman won the Science Award.

Dick Ferrero became the most talked about Senior in school by holding down the offices of Business Manager of The PORTAL and President of our illustrious class. We threw the book at Marshall Berman (see him about your complaints!), and the headaches of the Senior Reception at Marilyn Hainsey.

Then came the real joys of being a Senior: Class Night, Senior Banquet, a wonderful Reception; and last but not least, Graduation.

"Well, fellow Pyromaniacs, this book has proved that this building must have been some school named Weaver. Horror of horrors, what a mistake in repeating its history! But now I turn this program back to your announcer."

Announcer: Thank you, Dr. Smiles. This important news was brought to you by Eebaral Mouth Products. Tune in tomorrow for more news of The Smiles Expedition.

Always a wonderful and inseparable part of life at Weaver has been the many clubs and extra curricular organizations. The meetings, whether they were held in the morning or after school, gave us a chance to meet our friends, do interesting things, and get to know the many teachers who acted as interested and understanding club advisors.

Who can forget his own amazement, when, as a sophomore, he was told the names of all the clubs at Weaver? So many different kinds! No matter what we were interested in, Weaver had a club composed of other people interested in similar projects. And what variety! Three different science clubs, business and homemaking clubs, musical organizations, and even a camera club could be found among Weaver's activities.

SPANISH CLUB

FRENCH CLUB

Some clubs met for purely social reasons and those were the meetings that we remember as being so much fun, (and were we surprised to find out that our teachers really were human, after all!). Other clubs met to accomplish something, and much to the surprise of many students, actually did. These were the times when we discovered accidentally that science was really interesting and not just some dull stuff that they made us learn from a textbook.

Anyone who has taken a language has at least come in contact with the French and Spanish Clubs. When we remember how many things we learned painlessly, while having such good times at these clubs, it seems incredible. Mispronunciations, which were sometimes priceless, were always taken with such good grace, and corrected so hilariously, that sometimes we even carried the corrections over into the classroom! We investigated all the interesting things that we never had the time for in class, and developed remarkable projects, but through it all, we had a genuinely good time at every meeting.

INGLESIDE CLUB

At meetings of the various science clubs we discovered and investigated the many things that had always interested us. Memories of club meetings include experiments that often produced extremely weird results, and visits to many spots of scientific interest; and we can never forget the terrible disappointment when it rained on the day when a field trip was planned. Even through all our failures, however, we managed to learn something and to enjoy ourselves immensely in the process.

GIRLS' BUSINESS CLUB

Seldom heard from, but always busy, were the Ingleside and Business Clubs. If we weren't actually members, we'll best remember these clubs by their sales. We usually would rush down to the lobby as soon as we could get there on the days when the candy sales were held, and the taste of that candy won't be soon forgotten!

BIOLOGY CLUB

PHYSICS CLUB

Art and photography enthusiasts found their niches in the Camera and Art-Crafts Clubs. Although a small, and little-publicized club, the Camera Club made itself known to us by some of the wonderful photographs which were occasionally on display, and which looked so professional that we could hardly believe that our friends had actually taken the pictures, or posed for them. The Art-Crafts Club, however, we knew well, for if we didn't actually attend the meetings, which were hec-tically artistic, to say the least, we always were present at the annual sale, where the articles sold were in the best artistic tradition. We all have leather goods, metalwork, painted articles, or something at home to remind us of those sales, or of some "mad" Art-Crafts Club meeting.

CAMERA CLUB

ART-CRAFTS CLUB

ASTRONOMY CLUB

A prominent place in the list of Weaver organizations must be given to both Leader Corps. The Boys' and the Girls' Leader Corps have always taken a prominent part in school activities. The Boys' Leaders Corps is best remembered by Weaverites for the wonderful demonstrations of tumbling which they gave on many occasions, and from which we always came away with a feeling of wonder that they hadn't all broken their heads. All the girls in Weaver know the Girls' Leaders Corps as the girls in white gym suits who took charge of things in the gym classes, but the members know that it involved much more than that. They remember the parties, initiations, and other social affairs which they attended and also the many other affairs which they sponsored. What fun it all really was!

BOYS' LEADER CORPS

GIRLS' LEADER CORPS

WESTON H. BROCKWAY
Directing Glee Club

GLEE CLUB

We all remember the wonderful concerts given by Weaver's vocal organizations, the Choir and Glee Clubs, (no matter which end of them we happened to be on). Those who listened enjoyed the concerts, but couldn't know all the work and fun which had gone into them. The members remember the hectic meetings where they sang music or scales or exercises, as the mood possessed Mr. Brockway, (affectionately known as "Brock" by all). The results testify to the hard work, but only the members recall the jokes and good times that repaid them so fully for their efforts.

These are the clubs of Weaver, and in one way or another, we all came in contact with some of them. Through these clubs and organizations we became a part of the school, and the school, the teachers, and our friends really became a part of us. They were certainly delightful "side shows"!

"NOT FOR SCHOOL, BUT FOR LIFE, WE LEARN"

Colonel Robert L. Scott, famous war ace with the Flying Tigers in China and author of "God is My Co-Pilot" was not much of a student, but had the ambition to become a pilot. And he discovered that in order to become a pilot, he must not only study but also learn what was in the books.

If you are studying shorthand because you want to be a stenographer, concentrate on shorthand, typing, English, and whatever else will further your education and your skill. A good background as well as skill in stenography are essential to the secretary who takes a job of real importance.
